

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a ground based video pick-up system for transmitting video signals produced on a moving object to one of a number of 5 receivers at a fixed position and selecting the desired signal from the most appropriate one of those receivers.